

Quality Software, Faster.™

When you work with The Gnar, you get a lot of perks. Exceptional, experienced engineers. A completely US-based development team. A bug-free warranty for a full calendar year. But when it comes down to it, one thing is our secret sauce: our Quality Software, Faster. development process.

Kickoff Meeting

Every software development project begins with a client kickoff meeting, where we dive into your vision and goals and begin to outline the project specs.

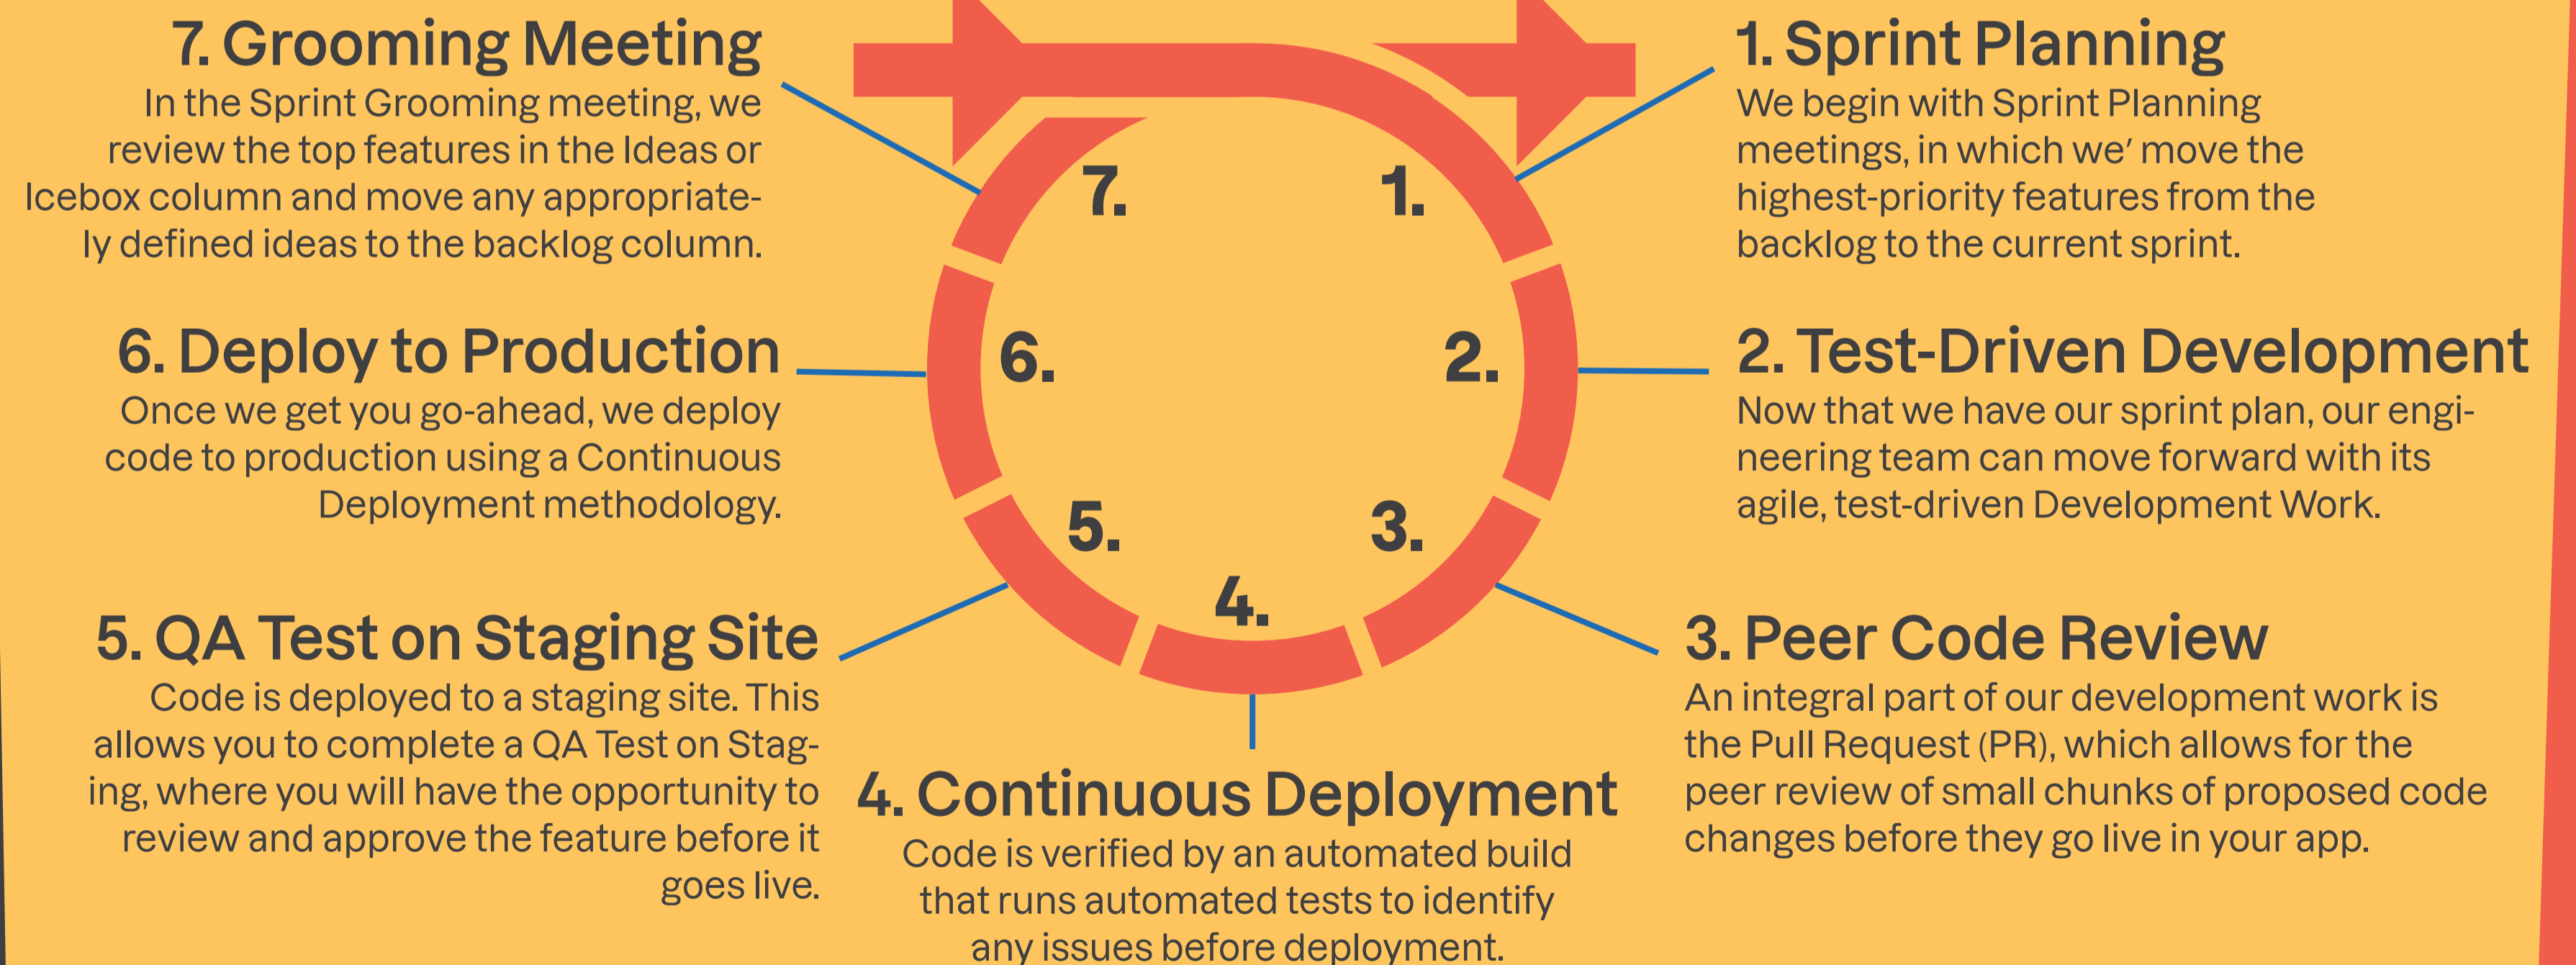

Design and Discovery

We begin software projects with our 4-6 week design and discovery process, which kicks off with a 1-2 day discovery workshop, after which we design a wireframe prototype. Based on that wireframe, we develop a visual design. We also create a detailed list of user stories, or descriptions of software features that describe the user and identify how any code changes might impact them.

Development Begins

Weekly Process

(production code delivered in the first week)

Product Launched

We launch the product to market and iterate as new features are released. We love sending our work out into the world, but our job doesn't end there. We can help you support and/or maintain your product, and once it's in use, identify areas where it could be better.